The following statement is required by the Alberta Residential Tenancy Act to be printed on any written residential property lease.

The tenancy created by this agreement is governed by the Residential Tenancies Act and if there is a conflict between this agreement and the Act, the Act prevails.

Schedule "A"

The following conditions apply where the relationship of landlord and tenant exists, regardless of any agreement, declaration, lease, waiver, or other statement to the contrary:

Conditions:

1. Sublet

The tenant may assign or sublet the residential premises to another person with the consent of the landlord. The landlord must respond to the tenant in writing within 14 days of the tenant's request to sublet or assign the premises. The tenant may assume the landlord agrees to the sublet or assignment if the landlord does not respond to the tenant's request within 14 days. The landlord cannot unreasonably withhold consent to assign or sublet.

2. Locks

Neither the tenant nor the landlord may change or add a lock or security device (for example, a door chain) to residential premises unless both agree, or unless ordered by an arbitrator. In an emergency, the landlord may change the lock on the main door of the residential property and the tenant may change a defective lock on the residential premises and promptly provide the other party with a copy of the new key.

3. Entry of Residential Premises by the Landlord

The landlord may enter the residential premises only if one of the following applies:

- The landlord gives the tenant a written notice which states why the landlord needs to enter the residential premises and specifies a reasonable time not sooner than 24 hours from the time of giving notice. The landlord may enter the residential premises between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. The landlord may not enter the rental unit on the tenant's day of worship or holidays.
- There is an emergency;
- The tenant gives the landlord permission to enter at the time of entry or not more than one month before the time of entry for a specific purpose;
