Fall & Winter Fun in Michigan's Coldwater Country

UP North begins here, in Coldwater Country. Crisp air, golden leaves and snowy landscapes—fall and winter are pure magic in Michigan's Coldwater Country. Nestled in south-central Michigan near the Indiana border, this scenic region—featuring Coldwater, Bronson, Quincy, Union City, Colon, Athens and Allen—is your go-to spot for vibrant colors, history, art, cozy charm, unforgettable outdoor adventures and plenty of seasonal festivities.

Outside Adventures

With more than 100 sparkling freshwater lakes, Coldwater Country is a playground for outdoor lovers year-round. Paddle the peaceful Union City Heritage Water Trail or take a boat ride along the North and South Chains of Lakes in Coldwater, soaking up the vibrant fall foliage—or the peaceful silence of a frosty morning.

Fishing more your speed? Reel in bass, perch, bluegill, and walleye before warming up at a local coffee shop or setting off on your next adventure. And even when the weather turns chilly, the fish don't stop biting. No boat? No problem, as long as there's a good layer of ice on the lake for ice fishing!

Before the snow flies, tee off at one of the area's scenic golf courses: The Coldwater Golf Course has been one of the most beautiful and challenging golf courses in southern Michigan since 1920. Bella Vista Golf Course spans nearly 300 acres, and the 9-hole Iyopawa Island Golf Course offers a unique island experience and a fun challenge for golfers of all skill levels.

Family-Friendly Fun

Coldwater Country doesn't slow down when the temperatures fall. Cooler weather simply creates an excuse to explore the area's many indoor attractions.

At the Adventure Zone, kids (and kids at heart) can race go-karts, play mini golf, battle in laser tag, enjoy duck-pin bowling and dive into virtual reality games.

Step back into a time of nostalgia, disco lights and small-town fun at the Skate Ranch. Enjoy classic arcade games, a maple skating floor and a full concessions area.

Younger visitors can explore the Children's Museum of Branch County, where learning meets play. The interactive exhibits including a climbing wall and hands-on exhibits are designed to spark creativity and curiosity.

Then climb aboard the Little River Railroad's historic steam engine. Ride the Pumpkin Train for dazzling autumn views or ride the rails aboard the Holiday Express in December for a joyful journey with Santa and a touch of vintage Christmas magic.

Seasonal Festivals, Fun & Small-Town Parades

As Thanksgiving approaches, Coldwater Country's communities embrace the holiday season with craft shows, parades, festivals and hometown traditions.

Late November and early December bring holiday craft shows, including Coldwater's indoor Christmas Market and Union City Batterson Memorial Christmas Bazaar. Visitors can browse handmade crafts, food, jewelry, soaps, home décor, seasonal gifts and more while supporting hundreds of local makers and businesses.

For an old-fashioned holiday experience, take in Union City's downtown Santa Parade or Quincy Lights, where Santa makes an appearance to light up the town, the Holiday Parade in Coldwater or Grinchmas in Bronson, a playful spin on the holidays.

Ron and Chickie's Festival of Lights is a spectacular array of twinkling displays, whimsical decorations, festive activities and visits from Santa himself create a magical atmosphere for the public on their Union City homestead.

The annual Yuletide Evening at the Coldwater Community Center at the Beech House, offers another dose of holiday charm. This December event offers heavy hors d'oeuvres, drinks, live holiday music and horse-drawn carriage rides throughout downtown Coldwater.

There's no shortage of winter whimsy at the historic Tibbits Opera House, a gem that offers live performances all year—from musicals and concerts to professional theatre and comedy shows. They have a full slate of events most weekends, including The 1985: A Totally '80s Mixtape LIVE! in November, Siberian Solstice: A Trans-Siberian Orchestra Tribute in December, another tribute band in January and Comedy Fest in March.

Downtown Coldwater's *Love Local Soup & Chili Even*t invites attendees to warm up with soup and chili tastings while they browse the downtown shops and vote on their favorite recipes.

For a frosty adventure, bundle up for Quincy's Chain of Lakes Tip Up Festival in February —complete with games, ice-fishing contests, family fun and the brave (or maybe a little crazy) Polar Bear Splash! Whether you participate or watch while bundled in a warm layer of clothing, the festival captures the playful spirit of a Michigan winter. With the right gear, cold weather becomes an invitation to get outside, try something new and enjoy the season.

More Art & Entertainment

Get inspired by Coldwater's thriving art scene! Grab a cup of coffee at one of the area shops, then enjoy it as you stroll through downtowns, finding colorful murals, student art and outdoor sculptures—or warm up inside the Tibbits Opera House art gallery.

Want more nostalgia? Pack some blankets and head to the Capri Drive-In where you can snuggle in as you watch a double feature under the stars. With twin screens and room for 1,000 cars, it's a classic movie night you won't forget.

For a little enchantment, visit Colon—the Magic Capital of the World. Discover spellbinding performances, quirky shops and magical experiences that make this small town truly extraordinary.

Antiques & Eats

Hunt for treasures at the Museum Gallery or the Coldwater Antique Mall, then explore downtown Quincy to browse the bookstore or shop for home décor, seasonal gifts, fashion, artisan jewelry and unique finds. Executive Director Debra Prater is Retiring

After 25 years with Coldwater Country Conference & Visitors Bureau

BY RENU SAGGAR

Debra Prater is Coldwater's greatest champion. Now, after 25 years of dedicated service, Debra is retiring from her position as executive director of the Coldwater Country Conference & Visitors Bureau (CCCVB).

With more than 100 sparkling freshwater lakes, Coldwater Country is a year round playground for outdoor lovers. Paddle the Union City Heritage Water Trail, or take a boat ride along the North and South Chains of Lakes in Coldwater. Soaking up the vibrant fall foliage—or the peaceful silence of a frosty morning.

The CCCVB is a nonprofit destination marketing organization supporting local businesses in Branch County Michigan. Under Prater's dedicated leadership, the bureau saw visitor growth and brand development for Coldwater Country.

During a remarkable tenure as a locality specialist, she helped shape tourism in Branch County and the surrounding communities, including Colon and Allen, saying that "visitors don't see lines on the map. They just want to experience all the great things our area has to offer."

Prater, originally Debra Hackett, graduated from Glen Oaks Community College in 1979. During her college years, she played on the women's basketball team and enjoyed art classes, especially using the darkroom to develop her photographs. Her photography skills came in handy for many years, taking photos for visitors' guides and advertising.

Her working career began at Paramount Furniture, a manufacturer of school furniture. An assistant to the purchasing agent she got promoted one day when her boss walked off the job.

Debra married and had a son, Kirk. One day while waiting tables she met an old friend who was doing marketing for a hotel in Coldwater and needed some help. Prater took the job, but on the first day, her friend went off on sick leave and never came back – leaving her to fill that post.

Her job gave her the opportunity to make connections and she caught the eye of board members at the Coldwater Country Conference & Visitors Bureau. The organization had never had a director. Instead, it was being run by the board of directors and the Coldwater Chamber of Commerce.

That changed in April 2001 when Prater stepped into the newly created role. Almost immediately she began building it from the ground up. With a budget of only $70,000 – funded by a bed tax on hotels rooms, she teamed up with her counterparts from St. Joseph and Lenawee counties to split advertising and travel expenses three ways.

She also drew on her leadership training as president of the Coldwater Jaycees, a young people's leadership training organization, earning a 1994 "Luthy Presidential Award" given to the top 10 local presidents in the state of Michigan.

Over the past quarter century, she has quintupled the Bureau's budget built a professional destination marketing organization that handles advertising, promotions and first rate website at www.coldwatercountry.com.

Prater cites Branch County draws like Tibbits Opera House, Little River Railroad, Aqua Pit, Capri Drive-In, Adventure Zone, and Hidden Ponds Horse Rescue as just some of area's unique attractions.

She enjoyed the opportunity to travel which her job has afforded her, including Traverse City and Mackinac Island for the Michigan Governor's Conference on Tourism. As she approaches retirement, she hopes to mentor as the incoming executive director, "because it's my baby," she said.

Debra plans to stay busy during her retirement. She wants to volunteer to assist small businesses with inexpensive marketing ideas and creating exit plans.

Debra will continue to volunteer for the many event committees she serves on. She will also have more time for hobbies like making sun catchers, reading, kayaking and hanging out with friends. Also, on the agenda is travel throughout the States with her husband Dan, her son and daughter-in-law. "I have been very blessed in my life," she notes, "and I plan to give back as much as I can.

Fall & Winter in Marquette County

BY RENU SAGGAR

Tucked along the shores of Lake Superior in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Marquette County takes on a different character with every season. Fall brings colorful forests, crisp temperatures and miles of trails to explore, while winter transforms the region with deep snow and no shortage of outdoor recreation. Add a calendar of seasonal events and holiday traditions and the colder months give travelers plenty to look forward to.

As autumn settles in, Marquette County comes alive with vibrant fall color. With 83 miles of Lake Superior shoreline, dramatic elevation changes and rugged terrain, visitors can see the changing leaves from forested trails, rocky overlooks and stretches of waterfront.

Hiking and biking trails provide plenty of opportunities to get outside and enjoy the season. The Iron Ore Heritage Trail, connects downtown communities with the great outdoors, spanning 47 miles and includes accessible paved segments well suited for a family walk or bike ride.

Some of the best views come from above. Just six miles north of downtown Marquette, Sugarloaf Mountain overlooks Lake Superior, the Huron Mountains and the surrounding fall canopy. Mount Marquette, rising more than 1,000 feet, offers sweeping views over the city, lake and colorful forest below. For a more accessible option, Thomas Rock near Big Bay features an ADA-accessible trail with panoramic views of the surrounding landscape.

Travelers can also see the changing leaves by car on Marquette County's Fall Color Tour, with several routes showcasing the destination at its peak. County Road 550 stretches from Marquette to Big Bay, passing Sugarloaf Mountain and Little Garlic River before reaching Lake Independence. From there, County Road 510 winds through the Huron Mountains on the return toward Marquette, completing a colorful loop through the county.

When winter arrives, Marquette County becomes one of the snowiest destinations east of the Rockies. Snow-covered forests become a setting for skiing, snowshoeing, fat-tire biking and snowmobiling, while Lake Superior's icy shoreline bring a completely different look to the area.

Cross-country routes can be found across the county, while Marquette Mountain Resort features 170 skiable acres with views of Lake Superior. Beyond the slopes, Marquette County is known as the fat-tire biking hub of the Midwest, with 60 miles of groomed winter trails, including the Noquemanon Snow Bike Routes and RAMBA Snow Bike Trails. Snowshoers can take a slower-paced approach at Al Quaal Recreation Area, home to more than 12 miles of trails, including the snowshoe-specific Baby Lake Trail, or follow sections of the North Country Trail through dense forest and along Lake Superior's shoreline.

Snowmobilers can cover even more ground on routes winding through the county. Trail 14 connects Marquette Township to Big Bay, Trail 417 climbs toward Mount Marquette and UP Trail 8 runs from Marquette to Gwinn through stretches of jack pine forest. The extensive network makes it easy to venture farther afield during the snowy months.

The holidays bring a full lineup of events. From November 26 - December 26, Holiday Lasers on the Ore Dock returns to downtown Marquette. Presented in partnership with Fresh Coast Light Lab, the artistic light projection illuminates the north side of the historic Lower Harbor Ore Dock. Visitors can watch from Mattson Lower Harbor Park Thursday through Saturday from 6 to 9 p.m.

Just west of Marquette, the inaugural Ishpeming Kriskindlmarkt will bring the Upper Peninsula's first European-style Christmas market to Ishpeming November 27-28 and December 4-5. The open-air market will feature decorated wooden vendor huts, handcrafted gifts, seasonal food and drinks, the Snowshoe Pub, live entertainment and family-friendly activities. A grand opening celebration, ceremonial Golden Keg tapping and the annual Ishpeming Torchlight Parade will also be part of the festivities.

The year comes to a close on December 31 with downtown Marquette's annual New Year's Eve Ball Drop. The 100 block of West Washington Street will close for the celebration as locals and visitors gather to count down the final moments of 2026.

Marquette County invites visitors to embrace the best of fall and winter, from colorful landscapes and outdoor adventure to local flavors and seasonal events, all set against the Lake Superior shores of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. For more information please visit travelmarquette.com.

It's Courses With Horses at Three Moons Farm

BY RENU SAGGAR

Three Moons Farm is where personal development, mental wellness and joyful play come together using some horse sense. Maureen Moons, the owner and president of Courses With Horses says the farm's unique equine-assisted programs are designed to promote well-being through the therapeutic power of horses.

"Horses are highly responsive to changes in their environment," notes Moons. "They notice shifts in energy, attention, movement and emotional state. They do not evaluate a participant based on job title or professional reputation. A horse responds to what is happening in the moment. This creates a form of immediate, unbiased feedback that is difficult to replicate in a traditional classroom."

Horses have played a monumental role in the human evolution and are proving to be effective at partnering with people in experiential development programs. The genuine connection between humans and horses creates learning experiences that can be unmatched.

"In our programs, learning with horses happens 'in the field' — literally says Moons. "Participants reach a level of vulnerability needed for deep personal development."

Whether your visit entails a team building exercise, mindfulness and meditation, a family gathering or just enjoying quality time with farm animals you'll leave with a renewed sense of purpose, wellbeing and resilience.

Courses with Horses workshops are unique. Horses are incredible energy facilitators! Guests collaborate with horses to enhance mental health and foster personal development. Participants build greater awareness of themselves and their colleagues through group-based activities. They improve communication and leadership skills, focus and motivation, further developing emotional intelligence, self-confidence and self-awareness, laying the foundation for greater team cohesion and performance.

Three moons experiential approach ensures an impactful workshop that provides lasting results for your group.

Start your day with fresh air, friendly animals and simple joys on the farm. Farm Mornings at Three Moons Farm invite you to slow down, explore and connect with the animals who make their farm such a special place. Designed to be playful, hands-on and relaxed, guests will have time to meet and visit with farm friends, including baby calfs, curious goats, miniature horses, soft baby bunnies and more. Each morning also includes a fun farm-themed craft for the kiddos so they can bring a little piece of the experience home with them. Crafts may change with the season, as do the animals and what is happening around the farm, keeping each visit fresh, fun and memorable. Farm Mornings are a joyful way to experience the magic of the farm.

Immerse yourself in the tranquil presence of horses and embrace the present moment through mindfulness and meditation. Join them in an approximately 1.5 hour Guided Meditation Workshop. Experience the profound connection of soul, heart and brain coherence. Cultivate inner peace, reduce stress and enhance self-awareness. With the help of gentle and intuitive horses, you'll learn how to balance your energy and achieve a deeper state of mindfulness and a harmonious and centered state of being.

In the 90 minute Mindfulness: Manifesting session, learn to connect with the majestic animals and explore the art of manifesting your desires. Let their gentle and intuitive horses guide you through this unique experience.

The Meadowlands is Fall & Winter's Ultimate Playground

Winter in the New Jersey Meadowlands doesn't mean slowing down. In fact, when the temperatures drop, the region offers an exciting mix of major sporting events, indoor adventures, family attractions, dining and entertainment that makes it an ideal winter destination.

One of the biggest events of the season arrives on Saturday, December 12, when one of college football's greatest traditions comes to MetLife Stadium. The 127th Army–Navy Game will bring the Army Black Knights and Navy Midshipmen together for another chapter of "America's Game." It marks the rivalry's return to MetLife Stadium for the first time since 2021 and only the second time the game has been played at the stadium.

Few sporting events match the pageantry, tradition and atmosphere of Army–Navy, making this a must-see event for football fans and an unforgettable way to experience the Meadowlands.

When the weather turns cold, some of the region's best adventures move indoors.

At RPM Raceway in Jersey City, visitors can get behind the wheel of high-performance electric go-karts and compete on an exciting multi-level indoor track. RPM combines racing with arcade games, virtual-reality experiences and racing simulators, making it a great destination for families, friends, corporate groups or anyone looking to add a little competition to a winter day.

For another adrenaline rush, head to iFLY Indoor Skydiving in Paramus. Instead of jumping from an airplane, guests experience the sensation of freefall inside a vertical wind tunnel. First-time flyers can suit up, learn the basics from an instructor and experience the thrill of flight in a controlled indoor environment — no parachute required.

Of course, no winter visit to the Meadowlands would be complete without a stop at American Dream in East Rutherford. The massive entertainment and shopping destination makes it possible to pack several completely different experiences into a single day.

Winter sports enthusiasts can ski and snowboard on real snow at Big SNOW, North America's first indoor, year-round real-snow ski and snowboard resort. Just steps away, families can trade their winter coats for bathing suits at DreamWorks Water Park, where the temperature stays tropical even when it's freezing outside.

The fun continues at Nickelodeon Universe, an indoor theme park filled with rides and attractions, while The Rink offers ice skating in the heart of American Dream. Visitors can also explore miniature golf, shopping, dining and countless other entertainment options throughout the complex. Whether you want to ski, swim, skate, ride a roller coaster or simply enjoy dinner and shopping, American Dream offers an entire winter getaway under one roof.

Nickelodean Universe

For an experience that transports visitors to another time, Medieval Times Dinner & Tournament in Lyndhurst combines live entertainment with a four-course feast. Inside the castle, guests cheer on knights as they compete in jousting, sword fighting and games of skill, complete with horses, colorful costumes and plenty of medieval pageantry. It's a especially fun winter outing for families and groups — and another reminder that some of the Meadowlands' biggest adventures happen indoors.

For a different kind of competition, spend an evening at Meadowlands Racing & Entertainment. The legendary Meadowlands Racetrack continues to offer live harness racing and dining throughout the colder months, giving visitors another classic Meadowlands experience.

And sports fans have even more reasons to visit. MetLife Stadium remains home to the New York Giants and New York Jets throughout the NFL season, bringing football crowds to East Rutherford well into the winter.

The best part about winter in the Meadowlands is the variety. One weekend can include college football at MetLife Stadium, indoor skiing at American Dream, high-speed racing at RPM, indoor skydiving at iFLY, a medieval feast and tournament and an evening at the racetrack.

Add the region's hotels, restaurants, shopping and close proximity to New York City and the Meadowlands becomes much more than a place to visit for one event.

This winter, bundle up — or head indoors — and discover just how much there is to experience in the New Jersey Meadowlands. Meadowlandslive.com

South Jersey Serenely Segues Into Autumn and Winter

When summer crowds retreat South Jersey's four counties—Burlington, Camden, Gloucester and Salem—reveal their true selves. This is a landscape of river towns, pine forests and farmland, best experienced when the air turns crisp and frost tinges the fields.

Burlington County's Johnson's Corner Farm in Medford, draws families for apple picking and hayrides, while Gloucester County's Duffield's Farm Market in Sewell is famous for its apple cider doughnuts and pumpkin patches. Corn mazes open across the region, and the smell of wood smoke and falling leaves becomes the season's signature.

History enthusiasts should not miss the Battleship New Jersey, which is permanently moored at the Camden Waterfront. At nearly 900 feet long and towering 11 stories high, this floating museum is America's most decorated battleship. Visitors can explore its decks through guided tours, view historical exhibits and special events that bring the ship's storied past to life.

The nearby Adventure Aquarium promises a delightful time for families. Home to over 15,000 aquatic species, including the largest collection of sharks on the East Coast, the aquarium's exhibits are sure to captivate. Don't miss the Stingray Beach Club, where visitors can touch and hand-feed an array of stingrays.

Smithville is a living-history village that feels like stepping into a Currier & Ives print. Colonial-style buildings housing unique shops and eateries surround a picturesque lake In December, the village transforms into a Christmas fantasy with over one million lights, a festive train ride and nightly tree lighting. The scent of wood smoke and mulled cider fills the air, making it a quintessential holiday destination.

A visit to South Jersey wouldn't be complete without a stroll through Haddonfield, a picturesque town often likened to the idealized "Main Street USA." Kings Highway, lined with locally owned boutiques and excellent restaurants, is set amid charming colonial-era architecture. Haddonfield is also famous as the childhood home of director Steven Spielberg and features a monument to the Hadrosaurus, the first dinosaur discovered in the United States.

Dinosaur buffs should head for the Jean & Ric Edelman Fossil Park and Museum in Mantua Township. The museum overlooks a real quarry where researchers have unearthed 66-million-year-old marine fossils and even a full-blown tyrannosaur.

Salem County holds some of the region's most evocative historic sites. Hancock House, built in 1734 in Hancocks Bridge, displays patterned brickwork typical of early Delaware Valley architecture. Finn's Point National Cemetery, overlooking the Delaware River, is a place of quiet reflection.

Spanning Burlington, Camden, and Gloucester counties Wharton State Forest is a different world once the leaves fall. Dressed in a white robe of snow, it takes on a silence that feels almost sacred. Hikers can venture deeper into the Pine Barrens to Batsto Village's historic ironworks and mansion,now quiet against bare trees. Keep an eye out for the legendary Jersey Devil, said to roam the Pine Barrens for over 250 years.

Shopping here is an antidote to the big-box store. It's about the thrill of the find. Browse the eclectic mix of antique stores, art galleries and specialty boutiques. In Smithville, explore the Village Greene for everything from old-fashioned candy and holiday ornaments, to handmade crafts. In Haddonfield, discover high-end fashion, unique home goods, and local art.

The colder months also bring a quieter dining scene. In Burlington City, historic High Street offers cozy cafes and taverns housed in colonial-era buildings. Camden County's Haddonfield and Collingswood boast thriving restaurant rows, where farm-to-table menus highlight local root vegetables and winter greens. Gloucester County's Mullica Hill retains its small-town charm with antique shops and a general store that feels frozen in time.

For overnight stays, bed-and-breakfasts in Salem and Burlington counties offer fireplaces, antique furnishings and the kind of unhurried hospitality that defines the region.

Ohio's Leadership Trail & Ohio Women's Monument

Long before Ohio became a state, people on this land were governing communities, building alliances, resolving conflicts and making decisions that shaped the future. Across generations, Ohioans have organized movements, challenged injustice, built public institutions, stood together for workers and communities and turned environmental problems into actions.

The Ohio Leadership Trail takes you to the places where those choices were made. Some leaders held offices or commanded armies. Others organized neighbors, challenged laws, gathered people around a cause, produced the evidence that changed minds or simply decided they could no longer accept things as they were. This "drive your own adventure" experience connects you to leadership stories across six themes and to the people, places, decisions and movements that helped move Ohio and the nation forward.

Ohio's leadership story begins long before Ohio. Indigenous nations governed communities, built alliances, negotiated, traded, resisted pressure and maintained cultural systems across this land for generations. These places reveal leadership through diplomacy, collective decision-making, strategy, cultural authority and adaptation during periods of profound change. They also remind us that the story of leadership here did not begin with statehood or westward expansion. It was already here.

Ohio's civic leadership story stretches from the creation of communities and state government to the presidency and national public life. Presidents, elected officials, educators, civic leaders, First Ladies and public institutions all shaped how people understood leadership and responsibility. Their stories reveal that holding office is only the beginning.

Many of Ohio's leadership stories began with people challenging injustice. Abolitionists defied slavery. Black Ohioans built institutions and challenged barriers. Women organized for political voice and opportunity. Lawyers and citizens confronted unjust laws. Faith and conscience inspired people to pursue abolition, peace, reform and different ways of living together.

Across movements and generations, these stories show how people organized to expand freedom, voice, protection, opportunity and power.

Other themes include Labor & Collective Action, Environmental Leadership and Military Leadership.

Leadership rarely fits neatly into one story. Explore online exhibits, educational resources, trip-planning tools and more ways to discover the people, movements, conflicts and decisions behind Ohio's leadership stories.

Ohio Women's Monument

On October 14, a new monument took its place on the South Plaza of the Ohio Statehouse. The Ohio Women's Monument is part of Ohio's commemoration of America's 250th birthday — and a lasting tribute to the women whose courage, leadership and determination have helped shape the state and the nation.

Created by artist Brenda Councill, the monument weaves history and contemporary sculpture to tell a story spanning nearly two centuries. Its four stone columns represent different periods from 1830 to the present, honoring notable Ohio women through names, stories and words engraved in granite.

Life-size bronze figures emerge among the columns reflecting the boldness, resilience and determination of the women whose stories are represented. The monument begins with Ohio women who raised their voices for equality before the Civil War and carries their story through the suffrage movement and into the generations that followed. Quotes engraved in the columns speak to equality, justice, liberty and the conviction that women deserve the opportunity to participate fully in civic, economic, educational and cultural life.

But this is not simply a monument to the past. Councill's vision reaches beyond the women whose names and words are etched in stone. It honors the women of today who continue to lead, work, create, serve, teach, advocate and open doors—and the women of tomorrow who will carry that work forward.

The Ohio Women's Monument is a place to pause, learn, reflect and be inspired. It will remind us that progress never happens by itself. It has depended on women who found their voices, women who used them and women who refused to stop working toward a better future. And now, their stories will stand in stone and bronze for generations to come.

Discover More Than You Ever Imagined in Toledo

Just across the border in northwest Ohio, Toledo offers a destination shaped by the Great Lakes, a rich glass making legacy, a growing riverfront and a creative spirit that continues to surprise visitors. With the Gordie Howe International Bridge now open, reaching this region of the United States is even more convenient.

Toledo offers plenty of reasons to plan a weekend away. Visitors can skate along a winding outdoor ice trail, wander through more than a million holiday lights, catch a Toledo Walleye hockey game or spend an evening out on the town enjoying orchestral music from the Toledo Symphony.

Toledo earned its nickname, the Glass City, through a glass making industry that helped shape its identity. Today, that legacy lives on in experiences visitors can see and even try for themselves.

At the Toledo Museum of Art, the Glass Pavilion houses an impressive collection of glass art, while demonstrations offer a closer look at the skill behind each creation. Watching artists transform molten glass into intricate works is a reminder that our industrial heritage has evolved into something distinctly creative. Through January 3, visitors can also enjoy a special exhibition featuring dozens of fan favorite works from TMA's overall collection while the main museum undergoes a reinstallation project.

The Great Lakes connect communities on both sides of the border, but few experiences bring their shared history to life quite like the National Museum of the Great Lakes. Located along the Maumee River, the museum explores the people, industries and vessels that have shaped life on these freshwater seas.

Interactive exhibits and historic artifacts tell stories of exploration, commerce and the challenges of navigating the lakes. During the warmer months, visitors can board the Col. James M. Schoonmaker, a historic freighter and the Tug Ohio. It's a tangible way to understand the scale of Great Lakes shipping history and the role these waters continue to play in regional life.

For visitors who want to get outside, Toledo's natural surroundings offer another surprise. At Oak Openings Preserve Metropark, sandy trails, oak savannas and distinctive habitats create a landscape that feels unexpected in the Midwest. Closer to the city, Glass City Metropark brings people to the Maumee River with open green spaces, waterfront views, dining and a skating ribbon for all seasons. It's part of a larger effort to reconnect residents and visitors with the river and create new reasons to spend time along its banks.

As the holiday season approaches, Toledo's calendar offers plenty of reasons to plan a weekend away. On November 7, Romance-Con brings romance literature fans together at the Toledo Library for a celebration of books and authors.

Beginning November 20, the Toledo Zoo & Aquarium's Lights Before Christmas transforms the grounds with more than a million lights and festive displays, making it a memorable holiday outing. Follow The Ribbon at Glass City Metropark, a unique way to embrace winter with its winding ice-skating trail.

Sports fans can catch a Toledo Walleye hockey game at the Huntington Center, while the Toledo Symphony's performance calendar offers opportunities to spend an evening enjoying live orchestral music. Round out the weekend with dinner at a local restaurant, a stop at an independent coffee shop or a visit to one of Toledo's many distinctive cultural attractions.

Toledo's eclectic dining scene will keep you happily fed and fueled along the way. At Souk Mediterranean Kitchen & Bar, bold Mediterranean flavors and fresh, seasonal ingredients make for a memorable meal, while Registry Bistro pairs an ever-evolving, chef-driven menu with creative cocktails in a stylish setting. For a more casual stop, The Garden by Poco Piatti at Glass City Metropark serves Mediterranean-inspired favorites just steps from the riverfront and The Ribbon. And no visit to Toledo would be complete without trying the famous Hungarian hot dog at Tony Packo's, a local institution with a history as memorable as its food.

Independent coffee shops offering plenty of places to recharge between adventures. Brew House Downtown is a favorite among hotel guests, with cozy seating and a speakeasy that comes to life after hours. Other local favorites include EARTH Coffeehouse & Café, House of Coffee and Maddie & Bella Coffee Roasters, each with its own personality and atmosphere.

For Ontario travelers, Toledo is an opportunity to discover something new without going far from home. The next time a change of scenery is calling, consider Toledo. With a remarkable legacy, a deep connection to the Great Lakes and lots of room to explore, it's only about an hour from the border. visittoledo.org.

The Island of Eternal Spring

BY RENU SAGGAR

Rising dramatically from the Atlantic Ocean, the Portuguese archipelago of Madeira is a destination that defies expectations. From the moment you arrive, you know you are somewhere special. The island's dramatic topography, with its steep, fertile hills plunging into the deep blue sea, is the result of its volcanic origins. Unlike the mainland's Mediterranean landscapes, Madeira is a semi-tropical outpost of green, characterized by black-sand beaches and rugged coastlines. With its lush laurel forests, dramatic cliffs and a climate that truly lives up to its nickname, the "Island of Eternal Spring," Madeira offers a compelling blend of adventure, culture and relaxation for every type of traveler.

For outdoor enthusiasts, Madeira is paradise. The island's most famous feature is its network of levadas—centuries-old irrigation channels that snake through the mountains, providing water from the wetter northwest to the drier southeast. What was once an agricultural necessity is now a hiker's dream, with trails running alongside these channels through verdant valleys, high cliffs and even dark tunnels. For those seeking a truly immersive experience, the UNESCO-listed Laurissilva Forest offers a prehistoric atmosphere, with mist rolling through ancient laurel trees and waterfalls thundering down hidden cliffs.

A hike to the peaks is a must for any visitor. The trail between Pico do Areeiro and Pico Ruivo—Madeira's third and highest peaks, respectively—is legendary. Watch the sunrise from Pico do Areeiro, where you stand high above a sea of clouds as the light hits the mountains. It's an unmissable experience that many describe as life-changing. It's a challenging but rewarding climb that encapsulates the island's wild beauty.

While adventure is a big draw, Madeira also knows how to live well. The island is home to historic quintas—traditional aristocratic estates that have been transformed into intimate boutique hotels and private retreats. Surrounded by vineyards, botanical gardens and orchards, these properties often embrace an estate-to-table philosophy, allowing guests to experience the island's bounty in a truly authentic way.

For those who prefer to experience the culture Funchal, the island's capital, offers a wealth of attractions. A stroll through the Mercado dos Lavradores is a sensory feast, the air is thick with the scent of exotic tropical fruits and fresh fish, while the vibrant colors of locally grown produce and flowers make for a perfect photo opportunity.

Zona Velha — the city's oldest district, dates back to the 15th century when Portuguese settlers first arrived on the island. With its cobbled streets and historic buildings, wandering through the Old Town is like taking a step back in time.

The Funchal Cable Car transports passengers from the lower section of Funchal, Madeira to the suburb of Monte, not far from the Monte Palace Tropical Garden. The lush garden is home to thousands of exotic plants from all over the world, tranquil koi ponds, cascading waterfalls and winding pathway. The ride up takes about 15–18 minutes and offers fantastic views over the city and the coastline along the way.

Madeira's culinary delights are as captivating as its landscapes. The island's cuisine is deeply rooted in the land and sea, with fresh seafood taking center stage. Local fishermen bring in delicacies like the unusual black scabbardfish, tuna, octopus and limpets, which are prepared with traditional flair. A taste of local beef is essential, particularly the famous Espetada—beef skewers grilled on a laurel bay stick, giving it an unmistakable, smoky flavor. It's often served with Bolo do Caco, the island's staple bread. No trip is complete without trying poncha, a traditional, potent cocktail made with local sugar cane rum, honey and lemon.

The crowning glory of Madeira's gastronomic heritage is its namesake, Madeira wine. Unlike other wines, it is intentionally oxidized and heated, resulting in a rich, caramelized flavor that allows it to age for decades. A visit to Blandy's Wine Lodge in Funchal, offers a deep dive into this history, where you can learn that this very wine was once used to toast the signing of the U.S. Declaration of Independence. The island's culinary scene is also being re-imagined by a new generation of chefs, who create contemporary dishes that blend local ingredients with modern techniques, offering everything from fine dining with ocean views to private vineyard lunches.

One of Madeira's most appealing features is its weather. With a subtropical climate, the island is a year-round destination. Spring brings a spectacular burst of color with the famous Flower Festival, making the hiking trails even more beautiful. Summer offers the best conditions for watersports and beach days, with warm sea temperatures and long hours of sunshine. This is also the season for the lively Madeira Wine Festival. For those looking to escape the northern winter, Madeira is a perfect retreat, the mild winter months are ideal for hiking and the Christmas lights in Funchal are considered some of the most beautiful in Europe.

To truly experience the island's ever-changing beauty, it's best to rent a car. Driving along Madeira's roads is never monotonous, the scenery can change from a sunny coastline to a misty mountain forest in just a few kilometers.

Madeira is more than just a pretty face. It's a destination where rugged volcanic peaks meet the luxury of historic quintas, where the thrill of canyoning is followed by the serenity of a wine tasting. It is an island that invites you to explore, relax and savor every moment. Whether you are an adrenaline junkie, a passionate foodie or a traveler in search of a unique and stunning getaway, Madeira's magic will capture your heart.

Authentic Alaska with Azamara Pursuit

BY RENU SAGGAR

Azamara Pursuit is a combination of boutique hotel comfort at sea with destination focused itineraries, making it ideal for travelers seeking a refined, immersive cruising experience. Azamara sails to some of the most extra ordinary adventures on earth, places you've always dreamed of!

Pursuit officially joined the Azamara fleet in 2018. After undergoing extensive refurbishments, Pursuit accommodates 704-744 passengers. With a favourable 2:1 passenger-to-crew ratio and ample space for the guests, there are no line-ups or packed elevators. The inclusive nature of Azamara cruises avoids all the additional expenses you find on other ships!

Sailing from Vancouver, Azamara Pursuit's Alaska itinerary includes port calls in Klawock, Sitka, Icy Strait point, Ketchikan and Victoria British Columbia.

Klawock, on the western shore of Prince of Wales Island, offers an authentic, off-the-beaten-path wilderness and Tlingit cultural experience. Icy Strait Point is a re-created village outside the small town of Hoonah, a thriving Tlingit community. Known as the "Salmon Capital of the World," Ketchikan blends vibrant Native culture, lush rainforest scenery, and Alaska's famous totem heritage. Set between forested islands and snow-dusted peaks, Sitka offers a captivating mix of Tlingit culture, Russian history, and pristine wilderness. Located on the southern tip of Vancouver Island, Victoria is known for its mild climate, historic architecture, and beautiful public gardens. Extended stays in ports such as Ketchikan and Victoria, BC, give guests ample time to explore each destination.

The culinary journey is equally considered. In partnership with award-winning chefs, Azamara has curated menus that celebrate the flavors of Alaska. Imagine enjoying a six-course dinner that showcases the day's fresh catch of wild salmon or halibut, paired with fine wines, all while reflecting on a day of incredible scenery. Azamara Pursuit features seven restaurants, cafes and lounges, including Prime C and Aquilina speciality restaurants. Pick your steak, cooked to perfection, herb-coated rack of lamb or Chilean Bass- all paired with delicious and healthy sides. Located at the aft (back) of the ship on Deck 10, Prime C features a warm, cozy, wood-paneled aesthetic with large windows that offer stunning, sweeping ocean views.

At Acquilina, the Italian restaurant, you'll taste some of the Italy's most authentic dishes made from scratch from traditional recipes with great vegetarian choices as well. Don't miss out on their famous Italian desserts like Sorrento lemon liqueur mousse, hazelnut chocolate soufflé and more.

The main dining room is consistently praised for its top-quality produce and imaginative cuisine and any dietary needs will be accommodated by notifying the ship at least 80 days before you sail!

The culinary team goes above and beyond to host events, from poolside

Prime C

BBQs ,to evening under the stars, to a spectacular White Night party, an al fresco feast and dance celebration where the cuisine is elevated, and the atmosphere is pure magic. You will see the Hotel Director Richard Gusmann, along with all his senior officers serving the food and Captain Mikael Palmroos dinning alongside the guests making this event extra special!

Alaska is a destination that demands a different kind of cruise. Instead of acting as a floating resort that happens to visit a few ports, an Azamara ship is a gateway to the places it visits. It's not about waterslides, Vegas-style shows, or racing from port to port. It's about the profound stillness of a glacial fjord, the thunderous crack of calving ice, and the quiet thrill of spotting a humpback whale breaching against a backdrop of snow-capped peaks. For travellers who crave this deeper connection, an Alaska cruise with Azamara offers a distinctly immersive and intimate way to explore the Last Frontier.

Sailing the legendary Inside Passage, offers some of the most breathtaking and sheltered cruising in the world. This route is a haven for wildlife, with frequent sightings of sea lions, bald eagles, and orcas. The calm waters also make for a smooth journey, allowing guests to truly appreciate the ever-present scenery that unfolds around every bend. Inside Passage cruises also enable guests to experience the carefully selected ports, chosen for their character and cultural richness, not just their convenience.

While the primary focus is the destination, Azamara's ships are sophisticated and comfortable retreats. Restore, recharge, and rejuvenate in the Sanctum Spa, and stay active with the onboard fitness programs. Beyond the day's excursions, Azamara creates memorable moments that are included in the voyage. A highlight for many is the AzAmazing Evening, a unique, complimentary event designed to connect guests with the local culture. In Alaska, this might be a lively celebration featuring Native dance performances, regional storytelling, or the famed Great Alaskan Lumberjack Show, bringing the spirit of the frontier to life under the open sky.

Pursuit offers a wide range of accommodations, from comfortable staterooms, to spacious suites with butler service. For many, a Veranda Stateroom is the sweet spot, allowing guests to step outside and take in the fresh sea air and ever-changing views of the Alaskan coastline from the privacy of their own space.

For travellers who want to go beyond the coast, Azamara offers extensive Cruisetours—multi-day land packages that can be added before or after the cruise. These programs are a seamless way to experience Alaska's vast interior.

Tours range a journey to Denali, a riverboat cruise, and a scenic rail trip, to more extensive land tours that combine the cruise with an exploration of the Canadian Rockies via the iconic Rocky Mountaineer train.

The best time to take this journey is from May through August. During these months, wildlife is most active, the days are long, and the weather—with temperatures typically ranging from the mid-50s to mid-60s °F, is ideal for exploration.

An Azamara Alaska cruise is an investment in an experience, not just a holiday. It is designed for the curious traveller, one who values authenticity, connection, and the profound beauty of the natural world over onboard spectacle. It is a journey that promises not just to show you Alaska, but to help you truly experience it.

The Pretonus Twin Towers

Malaysia ~ Asia's Cultural Crossroads

BY RENU SAGGAR

Southeast Asia conjures images of bustling Bangkok or the beaches of Bali. Yet, nestled between these famous neighbors is Malaysia, a country that offers a remarkably diverse and often underrated travel experience. It's a place where futuristic skyscrapers cast shadows on colonial-era buildings, where ancient rainforests harbor unique wildlife and where the culinary scene is a delicious reflection of its multicultural soul. Whether you're an adventurer, a foodie or a history buff, Malaysia offers an accessible and captivating journey.

The adventure often begins in Kuala Lumpur (KL) , the nation's dazzling capital. The city is a testament to Malaysia's rapid modernization, most famously embodied by the soaring Petronas Twin Towers, which once held the title of the world's tallest buildings. You can walk across the connecting Skybridge on the 41st and 42nd floors and head up to the observation deck on the 86th floor for sweeping city views.

Yet, KL's charm lies in its contrasts. You can explore the serene, pink-hued Putra Mosque, bargain for souvenirs in the bustling Petaling Street market or visit the Batu Caves, a magnificent Hindu shrine. To reach the main Temple Cave, you must climb the iconic, brightly painted 272 steps, guarded by a massive 140-foot golden statue of Lord Murugan.

Beyond the capital, history comes alive in the UNESCO World Heritage cities of George Town and Melaka. George Town, on Penang Island, is a captivating mosaic of British colonial mansions, ornate Chinese shophouses and colorful Buddhist temples. It's streets are also an open-air gallery, famous for the vibrant street art that adorns its walls.

Melaka, a two-hour drive from KL, reflects centuries of Portuguese, Dutch and British colonial rule mixed with local Peranakan culture. Visitors love exploring the red-hued Dutch Square, historical ruins like A Famosa fortress and shopping along Jonker Street, a paradise for souvenir hunters and foodies alike.

For eco-tourists and nature lovers, Malaysia is a veritable paradise. Peninsular Malaysia is home to Taman Negara, one of the world's oldest tropical rainforests, a haven for trekking and wildlife spotting, including the elusive Malayan tiger. The adventure intensifies in Malaysian Borneo, comprising the states of Sabah and Sarawak. Here, you can conquer Mount Kinabalu, the highest peak in Southeast Asia.

For wildlife enthusiasts, Malaysian Borneo is a dream. Sepilok allows visitors to see orphaned and rescued orangutans in a protected forest habitat,while a river safari down the nearby Kinabatangan River offers chances to spot wild proboscis monkeys, pygmy elephants and rhinoceros hornbills.

For divers, the waters around Sipadan Island are considered some of the best in the world.

If relaxation is more your pace, the island of Langkawi, with its turquoise waters and 10-million-year-old rainforest, offers the perfect setting for a "reset" stop. Here you can unwind on pristine beaches, take a cable car to the Langkawi Sky Bridge for breathtaking views and enjoy the slower pace of island life.

Located off the northeast coast of Peninsular Malaysia, the Perhentian Islands feature powdery white sands and crystal-clear turquoise waters. It is widely considered one of the country's best spots for scuba diving, where reef sharks and sea turtles are frequently sighted.

One of the greatest joys of visiting Malaysia is its extraordinary food. The country's multi-ethnic makeup—Malay, Chinese, Indian, and Peranakan—has created a unique and incredibly diverse culinary landscape. George Town is widely celebrated as the culinary capital, where the best meals are often found at humble hawker centers. Must-try dishes include the smoky, wok-fried noodles of char kway teow and the spicy, sour and aromatic noodle soup known as laksa.

Beyond these famous dishes, you can explore the complex flavors of Peranakan (Nyonya) cuisine, a blend of Malay, Indian, and Eurasian influences. Be sure to experience Malaysia's rich breakfast culture, which has even been recognized by UNESCO for its cultural significance.

These days, getting there is simple. Major international airports in Kuala Lumpur, Penang, and Kota Kinabalu make the country easily accessible. A well-developed network of trains, buses, and affordable domestic flights makes getting around simple and cost-effective. The ride-hailing app Grab is the go-to for convenient and affordable taxi services in cities. It is advisable to exchange some currency to Malaysian Ringgit (MYR) in advance, as ATM fees can be high.

Malaysia is hot and humid, so lightweight, breathable clothing is essential. However, to show respect at places of worship, it is important to dress modestly, covering your shoulders and knees. Don't forget a universal power adapter, as Malaysia uses the British-style three-pin plug.

Malaysia has two monsoon seasons, so the best time to visit depends on the region. It is a country that can be visited year-round by planning your itinerary around the areas with the best weather. The year 2026 is an especially exciting time to visit, as the country is promoting Visit Malaysia 2026, a national campaign designed to welcome visitors with more coordinated experiences.

Malaysia is more than just a destination; it's a vibrant and captivating experience. It's a place where you can sip an ice-cold drink while bargaining at a market, then ascend a mountain to watch the sunrise. It offers the perfect blend of adventure, culture and relaxation, all at an excellent value. For a trip that leaves you with unforgettable stories, Malaysia is the perfect choice.

Free Range Wanderng in Arizona

BY RENU SAGGAR

When people think about Arizona, they usually think about the Grand Canyon in the north or the Sonoran Desert, which occupies the lower third of the state. But between those two geological marvels, lie towering mountains, smoldering volcanoes, green coniferous forests, rolling grasslands and arctic tundra. Dramatic changes in elevation are responsible for an astonishing variety of flora and fauna. Arizona has more distinctive life zones than anywhere else on earth. In fact, you'd have to travel all the way from Vancouver Island to Mexico, to see as many habitats as you could find here in a single day.

One of the Seven Natural Wonders of the World, the Grand Canyon, is the state's undisputed highlight. The South Rim is the most accessible and popular option, offering breathtaking viewpoints and a comprehensive visitor center. Looking over the rim, you feel as if your heart has dropped 5,000 feet to the canyon floor. The dark corridor of the 2 billion year old Vishnu Shist or Inner Gorge, was formed by the oldest known rock on the planet. For those seeking solitude, the North Rim is a quieter, more remote alternative, though it's only open seasonally. To truly appreciate its grandeur, consider a rafting trip down the Colorado River or a hike below the rim.

The Sonoran Desert's Saguaro cactus stand like a sentinels, arms reaching out toward the horizon. Many Arizonans believe these giants possess human traits. One Saguaro is said to have taken revenge on someone using it for target practice, by falling on him and crushing him to death. Saguaros can live up to 200 years and reach 40 feet tall. Weighing up to 6 tons, they can be swayed by the touch of a finger. Keep an eye out for the many unique species of wildlife including the javelina, a 50 lb. rodent that resembles a pig.

The iconic sandstone formations of Monument Valley, have been cinematic backdrop for countless Westerns and are best explored via a jeep tour with a Navajo guide. For a more intimate encounter with nature's artistry, the orange-hued, wave-like crevices of Antelope Canyon are a must-see, offering a spiritual and visual feast.

Arizona is home to 22 American Indian

Horseshoe Bend Grand Canyon

Tribes, making it a vital destination for Native American history and culture. Explore the cliff dwellings of the Salado people at Tonto National Monument or the ancient farming community at Casa Grande National Monument. The Hopi Arts Trail offers a glimpse into Hopi culture with galleries showcasing traditional crafts like the rare "pootsaya" baskets.

Arizona's cities offer a different kind of adventure. Phoenix, the state's cultural hub, boasts an array of theaters, and museums like the Phoenix Art Museum and the Heard Museum, which displays an impressive collection of Native American artifacts, including baskets, jewelry, pottery and textiles. The Kachina Doll gallery features the world's foremost collection carved Hopi Kachina dolls, which depict spirit messengers from the Hopi religion.

The city's Desert Botanical Garden displays 15,000 species of desert plants including the mysterious boogum tree, which resembles an immense, upside down carrot. Just forty miles east of Phoenix, the Superstition Mountains rise from a desert basin lush with cacti and ocotillo. They were one of Geronimo's last hideouts and the site of the legendary Lost Dutchman Mine.

For a taste of the "Wild West," visit Tombstone, where you can watch a re-enactment of the legendary gunfight at the O.K. Corral.

The old territorial capital of Prescott has the architectural appearance of a small town in New England. The shady streets fan out from the central courthouse square and are framed by gabled Victorian homes with graceful verandahs. Whiskey Row in downtown Prescott boasts many historic buildings, including The Palace, Arizona's oldest restaurant and bar. Prescott enjoys a moderate climate thanks to its location high in the Bradshaw Mountains in the central part of the state. Hikers will want to make the 2.5 mile climb up nearby Thumb Butte in the 1.25 million acre Prescott National Forest. From the summit you can take in stunning 100 mile vistas that include the snow capped Mt. Humphries and the Sierra Prieta Rim.

Flagstaff is an historic mountain town nestled at the base of the San Franisco Peaks, in Arizona's high country. Just two and one half hours north of Phoenix, Flagstaff enjoys four distinct seasons and the state's best skiing at the Arizona Snowbowl. Visitors can tour the Lowell Observatory—the place where Pluto was discovered.

The Museum Club on historic Route 66, is a Depression era roadhouse as authentic as a Hank William's tune. The cavernous log structure was once owned by a taxidermist, who lined the walls with enough stuffed animals to open a natural history museum.

The Sunset Crater Volcano National Monument, fifteen miles north of the city, was the site of a major volcanic eruption about 900 years ago. Visitors cross over immense fields of frozen lava to reach a black volcanic cone that rises 1,000 above the meadow.

South of Flagstaff, Highway 89A winds down a series of switchbacks through the red rock walls of Oak Creek Canyon. The 28-mile ride into Sedona is considered one of the most scenic drives in America. Many believe Sedona's iconic red rocks harbor unusual concentrations of electrical, magnetic, and vibrational energy that intersect at places known as vortices. Sedona has at least three such power places, including Bell Rock, Boynton Canyon, and Cathedral Rock. In 1987, hundreds of people paid $75 each for a spot on Bell Rock, which they believed was going to lift off to Andromeda.

Located in the heart of Amherstburg, A La Mode ladies fashions brings you the top-notch collections from Europe, Canada, USA and much more. What sets A La Mode Ladies Fashions apart is their ability to combine the latest fashion trends with timeless pieces that withstand the test of time. You won't find the originality and comfort of their clothes anywhere else! They carry a wide variety of styles, taking you from day casual to evening chic!

Urban by Alembika at A La Mode

New lines for fall include Urban by Alembika from Israel, and Nikky Apparels a Canadian brand.

Nikky Apparels is an Ontario-based women's clothing label that has been designing since 1992. Founded by a mother-son duo, the brand is built around the philosophy of creating "everywhere" clothing—versatile pieces that transition seamlessly from chic to cozy, designed to wrap women in comfort and style. Their designs are timeless, sustainable and easy to care for, with a mission to speak to a new generation of creatives, while using innovative fabrics from nature.

The brand's identity is rooted in a legacy of female empowerment and family collaboration. Nikky herself was a long time educator before channeling her creative energy into fashion, while her son Danny Bawa serves as the CEO and Style Director. Together, they design all prints in-house, sew every garment and ship from their own warehouse—maintaining complete control over quality and working conditions. This hands-on approach has allowed Nikky Apparels to build a reputation as a market leader in discovering and nurturing talent, blending decades of manufacturing expertise with a fresh, innovative perspective on what modern women want to wear!

Urban by Alembika is the diffusion line of the Israeli fashion house Alembika, based in Tel Aviv While the main Alembika line is known for its vibrant, expressive aesthetic, the Urban collection brings a sharper, more architectural edge to the brand's DNA, characterized by bold shapes and striking contrasts . The collection is designed to offer a full range of sizes up to 48 as a legitimate design line rather than a separate plus-size range, maintaining the same creative cuts and attention to fit across every size. The collection is designed for women who want their everyday wardrobe to have a little attitude—relaxed and expressive clothing that balances comfort with directional style.

Ala Mode also carries a great selection of accessories: purses, jewelry, shoes from Miz Mooz and Django And Juliette plus much more. Join them on Facebook every Monday at 9 a.m. and Thursday at 5 p.m. for their live stream fashion shows featuring fun outfits and ensemble inspirations!

A La Mode is located at 52 Richmond Street in Amherstburg. Visit their website alamodefashions.ca for store hours.
