Arbitration Place Welcomes James Plotkin

Arbitration Place proudly welcomes James Plotkin to our NextGen roster. James is a bilingual litigation and disputes lawyer with Gowling WLG (Canada) LLP. Trained in both common law and civil law, James's practice focuses on international and domestic commercial arbitration, commercial litigation, intellectual property and administrative law. James complements his counsel practice with advisory work as independent legal counsel to two administrative tribunals. Along with various peer-reviewed publications, James co-authors commentaries on Ontario's arbitration legislation and B.C.'s international arbitration legislation. He also authored a chapter in an international handbook on third party funding in international arbitration (second edition forthcoming). He is a frequent speaker on arbitration, intellectual property and domain name matters.
